Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee works within their budget to ensure adopted pets have had proper veterinary care. Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee examines all animals and treats for parasites. We test cats for feline leukemia and FIV, and dogs for tick borne and heartworm disease upon arrival at our shelter. All animals are vaccinated and spayed or neutered (if they have not been previously). Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee recommends retesting for heartworm disease or feline leukemia and FIV 6 months after the original test date due to the incubation period of these two diseases. It is your responsibility to follow up with your veterinarian for year-round heartworm and parasite prevention.

Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee tries to inform the adopter of any possible medical problems that exist at the time of adoption. However, Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee cannot guarantee the health or disposition of the pet you are adopting. Many disease and medical conditions can develop over time and are often not related to their transition through our shelter. The animals we rescue are at greater risk for upper respiratory infections and intestinal parasites than the general population due to their backgrounds as strays and their exposure in municipal shelters.

I, the undersigned, have read the above disclaimer and understand that Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee has done everything that is reasonable to ensure the health of my new pet and does not hold Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee responsible for problems that occur after the pet is adopted. I understand that if my new pet becomes ill within 72 hours of adoption, I will notify Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee before any treatment is done. I understand that I can have my animal examined by a veterinarian who donates services to Animal Rescue Center of Shawnee. A list of these veterinarians has been provided to me. I understand I will be responsible for the costs beyond the initial exam.
